Holiday Angels 2010

Please help to provide holiday cheer for some of our region's most vulnerable children ...

Children do not have to be infected with HIV or have AIDS to be affected by the disease. Every year, children of parents living with HIV/AIDS do not have a happy holiday season due to the financial burden that often goes with their family member's struggle to survive.

Many difficulties compound the financial burdens of HIV/AIDS for clients of Big Bend Cares, such as:

- 73 percent of Big Bend Cares' clients live below the federal poverty guideline of $22,200 annually for a family of four.[†]
- Our challenging economy is making it even more difficult than ever for Big Bend Cares' clients to afford basic necessities.

Bearing that in mind, please consider our invitation to become a Holiday Angel, and help to provide holiday gifts to children who just want to have a happy holiday season this year.

Last year, Big Bend Cares and the Holiday Angels provided gifts for 226 children and 93 families. Please lend your support as an individual, family, office staff, church group, civic group, or a group of friends. Be a gift donor or a gift wrapper. Every little bit helps. For more information, call Diana Vossler at (850) 656-2437 x301, fax at (850) 942-6402, or e-mail dvossler@bigbendcares.org.
